

Wheeling Register.

DAILY, TRI-WEEKLY, WEEKLY.
LEWIS BAKER & CO.
THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1870.

THE Intelligencer is distressed with fear that the retention of the word white in the Constitution of West Virginia will prevent the immigration of negroes to settle our waste lands and build up the wealth of the State. Well, so be it. The negroes as a class are not exactly the kind of immigrants the State needs just now. They usually crowd into the cities and towns, and making a precarious living by doing odd jobs of whitewashing or by "raising poultry"—from their neighbors' coops. Not in fifty of them can be induced to clear off a farm for himself or work industriously in the cultivation of the soil. If the retention of the word white in the list of the qualifications of voters will have no other effect than to discourage the immigration of negroes, by all means let it be retained.

82 The Price.
The price of the WEEKLY REGISTER is $2 per year; and it is well worth the money. In clubs of five and upward, it will be sent for $1.80. Those who send less money than $2 for single subscription; or $1.80 in clubs of five or more, will be credited on our books only for the portion of the year the money pays. Please bear this in mind.

Another Democratic Gain.
If our roster had not already crowded himself hoarse over the Democratic victories won in the fall elections, we would call upon him to exercise his lungs again this morning. As it is, we are compelled to excuse the bird and be content with the simple announcement of the fact that, in a special election to fill a vacancy in the representation of one of the Districts of North Carolina in the present Congress, the Radical candidate, HOLDEN, a son of the notorious Governor of that name, has been beaten by MAXIMO, a Democrat. The District has heretofore been Radical.

Superficial Education.
General SCHRYVER, Inspector of the United States Military Academy, at West Point, in his annual report, starts a subject which cannot fail to arrest the attention of thinking men in all parts of the country. He says: "The results of the late examination have, with greater force than ever before, directed the attention of the Academic authorities to the utterly superficial system of education prevalent throughout the country. It is no longer unusual or surprising to find candidates rejected at West Point for deficiency in the primary branches of a common school education, possessed of diplomas from reputable seats of learning, attesting their proficiency in many kinds of knowledge. Though the requirements for admission are certainly not beyond the capacity of an ordinary pupil of the common schools, old enough to receive a cadet appointment, it is doubtful whether a tithe of the vacancies at the Academy could be filled, without the one year's preparation for examination provided for by law." It would seem, from the above official announcement, that the fast principle of the country and age, has undermined our systems of education, and its fruits are apparent. The knowledge imparted to pupils is merely superficial. They have a smattering of many things, but are thorough in none. The forcing principle is adopted, and scholars are merely hot-house plants which fade and die when exposed to the hearty, crisp blasts of contact with the actual and the real in learning and knowledge. General SCHRYVER has plunged the lance into a tumor which is eating into the very vitals of society, and, while the patient may write under the operation, much good must result from the opening.

Immigration.
The State of West Virginia has an area of about 25,000 square miles and a population of about 450,000. This gives seventeen persons to each square mile, or about thirty-seven acres of land to each man, woman and child in the State, or to each family of five or six persons a farm of about two hundred acres. It is a fact, however, that the population of the State is largely congregated in the cities, towns and villages. It is perhaps less evenly distributed over the entire area of the State than is the case in the majority of the other States of the Union. We have no data at hand concerning the number of acres of wild or unimproved land, but we venture the assertion that not more than one fifth, possibly a much smaller proportion, of the area of the State is embraced in what may be called improved farms. Practically, four-fifths of our territory is in a condition of wilderness.

Now what shall we do to make these lands productive? We can't farm them ourselves. Experience in this and other countries has demonstrated that a family of five persons cannot farm more than forty acres to good advantage, and here are five times that area for each family, even if all our manufacturers and merchants were to abandon their present employments and go to tilling the soil. Manifestly we must have help from abroad; our farming population must be increased; we must have immigration.

of almost everything they have on their farms for sale. He must have food for himself and family, and provender for his stock. He must have farming implements and seed. All these he buys in the neighborhood, and upon all these the sellers have a profit. At the end of the year his forty acres are more valuable than they were when he began to work upon them; they are assessed at a higher rate, and the former owner of the tract finds that he is not only relieved from the payment of taxes upon forty acres of land which were totally unproductive of value, but the taxes upon the remainder of his lands and upon all the farms in the county are reduced by the addition to the tax list of the improved value of this forty acre tract.

Now what is true in the single instance we have supposed will be also true in any number of cases. Let two hundred families be brought into any of our sparsely settled counties and all the property in the county will rapidly appreciate in value. And this increase in value will not end with the first year, nor the second, nor the third, but will continue so long as the work of improvement and cultivation goes on. A market for many articles of farm produce will be brought to the door, and no freight or other charges will be deducted from the profit of the producer. Manufacturers will spring up; the splendid water power of our mountain streams will be utilized; mines will be opened and the mineral wealth of our hills brought forth, and all the varied employments of busy life pushed successfully forward. All parties will reap an advantage. The new settlers have made a good investment and are rapidly growing in wealth, while the former residents of the county, who may, perhaps, have merely sat still and looked on as idle spectators of the industry around them, will wake up to find the value of their own property largely enhanced, their income greater and their taxes less.

These vast tracts of unimproved land in West Virginia are not only a serious drawback to the prosperity of the State, but they are of no earthly advantage to their owners. A man must have an almost princely income from other sources to enable him to pay the taxes that annually accrue, while he is waiting for his land to become valuable. If all the holders of these lands continue to wait, they will, ere long, have paid so much in nursing their investment that they cannot afford to sell at prices which buyers can afford to pay. Would it not be better for them to either donate small tracts to actual settlers, or sell at low prices and upon long credit, so that the value of their other lands in the neighborhood might be improved, than to hold on to these wastes which ought to be yielding subsistence and wealth to thousands of families? To obtain the immigration necessary to people our waste lands and increase the wealth of the State, there must be action by the people, the owners of the lands, as well as by the State. Legislation alone will not accomplish the object we have in view. The State has no public domain which it can offer to immigrants. The owners of lands, the present farmers, merchants and manufacturers of West Virginia must aid in the work. It is for the advantage of all, and all our people should join heartily in the effort to bring immigrants here, and make it not only our advantage but theirs also to settle among us.

In future articles upon this subject we will endeavor to present some acceptable plan for individual action, as well as some suggestions as to the legislation necessary to promote the end in view. We trust that members of the Legislature and the citizens of the State generally will give the subject some thought. And, in this connection, we present below an extract from a recent letter from Colonel DAVID H. SHERMAN, of Berkeley Springs, in reference to this subject:

"I fully recognize the importance of the subject, and wonder that the State government does not give it more liberal and extended attention."
I have for some time been convinced that advertising on a grand scale in books, maps, geological reports, lectures, newspaper articles and pictorially, and persistently, is the true means of drawing into West Virginia the enterprise and money needed to develop her immense natural resources, and securing to her just proportion of that invigorating emigration which has built up so many States elsewhere, whose natural advantages do not compare with hers. I firmly believe that ten thousand dollars annually spent in that direction would bring an annual increase of ten million to the aggregate wealth of the State, as has been proved elsewhere.

I hope that the party coming into power at State headquarters will view this matter more intelligently and liberally than its predecessors have done, and that the press will use its united influence to that end.
Mr. Boggess, November 30.
WHEELING, November 30.
Editors of the Register:
The State of West Virginia having thrown off the yoke of Radicalism at the polls in October, may now be regarded as reliably Democratic. The people have done their part well. They undoubtedly expect the Legislature to do its part equally well. Now after providing for a Constitutional Convention and wiping the oppressive and odious registration laws from the statute books of the State, it strikes me that the selection of the most desirable, the most suitable man to represent us in the United States Senate is of the greatest importance. Already the names of several distinguished and pretty well known gentlemen have been announced in connection with this high trust, some of whom would reflect credit on our young Commonwealth. Without in any way attempting or intending to underrate the ability or question the claims of those already named in this connection, I respectfully direct the attention of the members elect to Caleb Boggess, Esq., of Harrison county. This gentleman is eminently possessed of all the qualifications necessary for the faithful and efficient discharge of the responsible duties of United States Senator. He would at once stand prominent among the highest and most gifted, as a jurist and as a general scholar; whilst in the order of purity and integrity, he would reflect honor on the Senate and on his own State. Probably there are few, if any of the members, to whom his ability and integrity are not known. Conscious that a patriotic interest in the well-being and honor of the State will influence those who are to elect the United States Senator, would it not be well to secure the services of one so good, so true, and so capable of representing our State in the National Congress. One who would be on all great questions balloting by the side of Ohio's great and gifted Senator, Judge Thurman.

Respectfully yours,
DEMOCRAT.

The Speakership.
Editors of the Register:
We wish to say through your widely circulated paper, that Hon. James Hervey, of Brooke county, will be presented as a candidate for Speaker of the House of Delegates. Mr. H. has had long Legislative experience; is a lawyer of fine standing; is of commanding appearance and courteous bearing. We think the Pan-Handle is entitled to the position, and that Mr. Hervey, from his standing and experience, is the most suitable man to fill it.

Why are You so Nervous?
Let us resolve the question. It is because your organization is naturally delicate, or you make it so by violating the laws of nature. Life is a burden to tens of thousands of human beings only on account of the indulgence of their appetites and passions. As an appropriate and legitimate penalty they are suffering from nervous irritability, irregular sensations, uncontrolled impressions, unfounded uneasiness, restlessness, quailings, misgivings and despondency. Their tears will flow or laughter break out unprovoked by sorrow or joy. They are victims of hidden disease which produce this fluttering state of animal spirits. Is not this your condition? What you most need is invigoration. MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS is a tonic and gentle stimulant which will refresh both mind and body with natural strength, and what it gains for you it maintains. Persons of nervous temperament will find it to be a true tonic in check their infirmity by the daily use of this pure and wholesome nerve and invigorator.

An Old Friend.
For many years the Press of the country has chronicled the beneficial effects of Host's (or's) Stomach Bitters. Editors, authors, physicians, merchants, officers of the army and navy, chemists, counselors, ministers of the gospel, in short, a great cloud of witnesses of every profession, trade and calling, have testified to its efficacy as a tonic and regulating medicine. The names and statements of these witnesses have been published in the public prints. Many of them are well known to the whole public. Their testimony has never been challenged or impugned. This has been tried and pronounced, on the authority of those whose lives and health it has preserved, a pure, harmless and eminently salutary preparation. Attempts have been made to rival it. They have failed. There is nothing equal to the enjoyment experienced by the afflicted when using this valuable specific. Its mild tone, its sure and vigorous action upon a disordered stomach, and the cleansing of the entire human body, recommend it to the whole community as a RELIABLE FRIEND.
OLD FRIEND
